

52nd Annual Conference of Irish Geographers

CIG 2021

Geographies of Responsibility: Rethinking Boundaries and Borders in a Turbulent World

18th – 21st May 2021

Chair's welcome

In 2020, I extended my Chair's welcome on behalf of the organising committee of the 52nd Conference of Irish Geographers... and in 2021 I have the somewhat dubious honour of doing so again.

The theme of the conference we planned last year was Geographies of Responsibility: Rethinking Boundaries and Borders in a Turbulent World. And 2020 has certainly brought some turbulence! It has also, at least temporarily, reshaped how our borders are made to work and are understood. At the same time, our strange year has laid bare our interconnectedness and responsibility towards each other. The political, ecological and social divisions that were at the forefront of our minds while planning the 2020 conference are still very much a feature of the world that we struggle to understand and to live in. But the past year has inflected these concerns with both a new urgency and nascent hopes.

In order to survive – and indeed to dream of flourishing – in the face of what is certainly to come, we must recognise our shared vulnerability before each other and our planet. Seeking to learn from the turbulence, vulnerabilities and indeed solidarities that the last year has revealed will be a crucial task. And to fight for the creation of a geography and a politics of responsibility, as well as an infrastructure and an ethics of care, will be an imperative.

One thing that hasn't changed, however, is our firm belief that geography – the ultimate synthesis discipline – is uniquely positioned to respond to these challenges.

So somewhat weary and beaten, but with the stirring desire for more than the more-of-the-same that we have for too long come to expect, we invite you all to submit sessions and papers that speak to our conference theme for 2021: Geographies of Responsibility: Rethinking Boundaries and Borders in a Turbulent World.

On behalf of all in Geography at Trinity College Dublin, we wish to extend a very warm and enthusiastic welcome to you all to the 52nd Conference of Irish Geographers. For this year's conference, we are fully online. We look forward to experimenting with our traditional format while offering you all some unique experiences. Eyes front, thinking of the future.

Cian O'Callaghan
Conference Chair

Attending CIG 2021? Here's what you need to know!

We're excited to introduce attendees to Whova, the virtual conference platform provider we've partnered with to host CIG 2021.

Who or what is a Whova?

Whova (pronounced hoo-vah) is the event app and virtual conference platform that we're using to help us run CIG 2021. They're a company based in California and we've chosen their platform to host CIG 2021 because it allows for an all-in-one virtual conference as something you can properly attend. There'll be a mix of pre-recorded and live content, as well as networking and interaction functions that we're hoping will help to replicate the connections that the Conference of Irish Geographers is so good for nurturing.

How do I 'attend' CIG 2021?

CIG 2021 is being hosted by Whova. You can access the event through the links circulated to registered attendees, or by clicking here.

After you've completed conference registration, the email address that you registered with will be used to create a speaker/attendee profile for you at CIG 2021. We'll upload your name, institutional affiliation, and email, and you'll be able to log-in to the event by creating an account on the Whova app or website. You can add a photo of yourself and further information to your Whova profile (think of it like an online bio) for other attendees to get to know you.

You will be able to attend CIG 2021 through Whova's desktop platform (go here) or by downloading the Whova App in Google Play or Apple Apps (please note, Whova is only on the App Store for iPhone or iPad).

We'll email updates daily during the conference. You'll sign into Whova and stay on the website or app for however long you're attending – no hunting for links or loading Zoom windows separate from the schedule! You'll be able to interact with speakers and other attendees within the online platform, and we're looking forward to hearing from you throughout on our discussion boards.

List of sessions in CIG 2021 (draft) timetable

Agency, participation, and communication in/through geography

Chair: Susan Pike

Paper	Name	Affiliation
Project-based learning and virtual fieldwork to enhance student understanding of catchment response	Ro Charlton	Maynooth University
Palaeoecology as an applied subject – how do we make the past visible?	Helen Shaw, Carla Ferreira	ICARUS, Department of Geography, Maynooth University
Geography and Curriculum: Past, Present and Futures for Geography in Schools	Susan Pike	DCU
Mapping Green Dublin: co-creating a greener future with local communities.	Alma Calvin, Niamh Moore-Cherry, Gerald Mills	UCD Geography

Anthropogenic Impact on Wetlands 1

Chair: Iris Moeller

Paper	Name	Affiliation
Understanding the resistance of UK salt marsh substrates to erosion	Helen Brooks, Iris Moeller, Tom Spencer, Kate Royse	Trinity College Dublin
Spatiotemporal patterns and conservation implications of wild European rabbit burrows in coastal dune systems	Chloe Bentze, Helene Burningham	UCL
Hydrological pathways through raised bogs and lessons for peatland restoration	Laurence Gill, Michael Swenson, Shane Regan	Trinity College Dublin (Dept of Civil Engineering)
Landuse change dynamics in the context of Irish raised bogs	Wahaj Habib, John Connolly	Department of Geography, Trinity College Dublin
Natural capital accounting to inform peatland restoration in Ireland: learnings from the INCASE catchment approach	C.A Farrell, J.C. Stout, L. Coleman, D. Norton	Trinity College Dublin

Anthropogenic Impact on Wetlands 2

Chair: Iris Moeller

Paper	Name	Affiliation
Assessing the vulnerability of raised bog ecosystems to inter-annual climatic variability: A case study of the carbon dynamics of Clara bog.	Matthew Saunders, Ruchita Ingle, Shane Regan	Trinity College Dublin; National Parks and Wildlife Service
Using the Rapid Assessment of Wetland Ecosystem Services (RAWES) method to inform policies for the management of wetlands in County Monaghan	Patrick Crushell, Peter Foss, Mary Catherine Gallagher, Shirley Clerkin	Wetland Surveys Ireland
Landuse and landslides: the serial killers of our peatlands	M. Bourke, N. Cullen, R. Halpin, C. Farrell, J. Connolly, M. Long	Trinity College Dublin
Updated GHG emissions factors for Irish peatlands: a review	Elena Aitova; Terry Morley, Florence Renou-Wilson.	National University of Ireland, Galway

Art & Geography 1 – An Irish Anthropocene?

Chair & Discussant: David Nally

Paper	Name	Affiliation
Addressing our current environmental crisis: navigational charts and multi species networks	Tanya De Paor	BCA and NUI Galway
An Irish Anthropocene?	Gerry Kearns	Maynooth Geography
Feminist and Indigenous Critiques of Anthropocene	Karen E. Till	Maynooth Geography
An Irish Anthropocene: The Languages of our Environmental Pasts, Presents and Futures	Nessa Cronin	NUI Galway, Centre for Irish Studies

Art & Geography 2 – An Irish Anthropocene?

Chair: Gerry Kearns

Discussant: Rory Rowan

Paper	Name	Affiliation
The Anthropocene Fold	Patrick Bresnihan, Pat Brodie	Maynooth University & MacGill University
Sustainment Experiment	Deirdre O'Mahony	Independent Artist
The Littoral Flâneuses	Ruby Wallis, Michaële Cutaya	Independent Artist

Challenging the Extractive Gaze through Participatory Visual Methods	V'cenza Cirefice	National University of Ireland, Galway
--	------------------	--

Art & Geography 3 – Ecological Mappings

Chair & Discussant – Patrick Bresnihan

Paper	Name	Affiliation
“The joy of being in a landscape of memories and the future”: exploring past and present values of peatlands through community mapping	Kate Flood	NUIG
Connecting urban communities with Nature: Mapping the Norfolk Broads [Nature Deficit Disorder, urban children?]	Glyn Brewerton	Norwich Univ of Arts
Mapping a New Trajectory: Using the permaCultural resilience mapping tools to re-imagine purpose	Anita McKeown	Independent artist
PLOTS: Creating co-ordinates for collective futures	Seoidín O’Sullivan	Independent artist, artist in residence, Maynooth Geography

Art & Geography 4 – Mapping Untold Stories

Chair: Gerry Kearns

Discussant: Adrian Mulligan

Paper	Name	Affiliation
Essaying the presence of absence at the former Magdalen Laundry in Cork city, Ireland	Rachel Andrews	Writer and NUIG, Centre for Irish Studies
Haptic Encounters with Birthplace: Mapping Cartographies of Birthplace & Birthplace Stories from Co. Clare	Martina Hynan	NUIG, Centre for Irish Studies
Exercises in Spatial Justice	Rajinder Singh, Karen Till and MA SJ	Independent artist, MU Geography
The Pavee Roads Home Storymapping Project	Michael Collins, Martin Reilly, Andy O’Hara, Rachel McArdle, Karen Till Sasha Brown, Gerry Kearns	Pavee Point Men’s Health, MU Applied Social Studies, and MU Geography

Art & Geography 5 – Deep Mappings of Place

Chair: Nessa Cronin

Discussant: Cian O’Callaghan

Paper	Name	Affiliation
Touching Darkness	John Sunderland	Artist
New Perspectives on the Rural: Landscape, Community and Creativity Place and Place Making: Water Mills and Marshes	Neil Bousfield	Norwich Univ of the Arts

IGC 2024 - Celebrating a World of Difference

Chair: Niamh Moore-Cherry

This open session provides an opportunity for all conference participants to hear about the winning bid from the GSI, and early stage planning, for the International Geographic Congress to take place in Dublin, August 2024. The conference proposal, visual identity, and planning to date will be shared. This session is an open call for participation in the congress organisation as the core local organising committee seeks to expand and diversify its membership. We invite anyone along who would like to volunteer to get involved in the organisation of the congress or support it in other ways.

CIG 2021 was made possible with a lot of help!

When our own Cian O’Callaghan took over the weighty mantle of organising the 52nd Conference of Irish Geographers from our colleagues in Galway, none of us had any idea of the extraordinary circumstances that would lead to him chairing the conference twice in a row. As a department, we’ve spent two years thinking about and working toward hosting the 52nd Conference of Irish Geographers.

Our departmental conference organising committee have worked tirelessly to ensure that CIG 2021 would go ahead and spent a significant amount of time and energy organising the event in the midst of a very turbulent, stressful, and dispiriting year. The committee have benefitted in these efforts from the assistance of our registration partners, Keynote PCO, and virtual event platform providers, Whova. We gratefully acknowledge the support of our sponsors, and particularly the Environmental Protection Agency, as well as Trinity College Dublin’s Gift Shop, Butlers Chocolates, and Fitting Image Ltd. We would also like to thank all four of our fantastic keynote speakers for sticking with us, our Department Admin and Tech staff for their crucial assistance, and everyone who is taking part in this historic 52nd Conference of Irish Geographers for the work they have done to help us make this happen. Special thanks are also due to Celina Muldoon, whose artwork is used extensively in our conference design and promotional materials, and our own Maedhbh Nic Lochlainn, who designed and put these materials together.

We hope that you enjoy the conference, and we hope to see as many of you as possible in Limerick next year, under simpler circumstances!
